Creating Backyard Habitats (core) – Dr Candy DeBerry, Instructor

Dr DeBerry, an expert in backyard habitats and use of native plants in landscaping, will discuss the three basic requirements of wildlife (food, water, cover) and some ways to provide them. Learn why some animals are desirable in the garden and around the home, while others may be a problem. Dr DeBerry has great examples of how to garden for wildlife, including which native plants are best for food and cover in various habitats. Learn about building bird houses, bat houses, bird feeders, and enjoy Dr DeBerry’s great collection of books and handouts on the subject!

MonarchWatch: Rearing and Tagging Monarchs (Elective)

Students will learn about monarch butterfly natural history and biology, including their spectacular migration clear to Mexico in the winter. Students will learn how to collect and rear monarch caterpillars, tag adults and keep records for Project Monarch Watch. Program will begin with a classroom presentation and PowerPoint and end with a field trip to a farm in West Liberty.
