Booking the Space for Your Wedding Reception

Overview: Impeccable timing, accurate numbers and adequate function space are the three most important factors when initially booking your reception. The booking of appropriate space (square footage) for your wedding reception to accommodate your needs, wants and desires, can mean the difference between success and failure. Only you can answer the questions necessary to ascertain the amount of space required. Remember anything that takes up space (square footage) must be considered from the onset.

To help determine the amount of space you require and ascertain whether we can accommodate your reception, please be prepared to answer the following questions at your initial meeting with our Wedding Sales Executive.

What are your preferred dates? Please list in the order of importance.

What are the beginning and ending times of your reception?

Will you have minor or extensive decorating? Please explain your basic concept. Please note that you need to rent the function space to include the decorating time required and you must allocate space for certain decorations.
